

Title

The architecture of Arm CCA Device Assignment

Abstract

A discussion on the requirements and constraints that led to the design of the Device Assignment feature of Arm's Confidential Compute Architecture.

Bio

Derek Miller is a Senior Principal Architect in Arm's Architecture and Technology Group. He has worked in the industry for over 25 years in many different roles across several companies, focusing mainly on security and confidential computing.